The Battle Of The Beast

Social and Emotional Learning (SEL), Transition & Creative Writing Workshop

An imaginative, hands-on experience combining creative writing, storytelling-craft and social-emotional learning. Students transform the invisible challenges we all carry into imaginative 'Beasts', then use character, conflict and creative writing techniques to develop stories about courage, change and discovering something about themselves.

YEARS 5-6

Take home:
A Beast Workshop booklet with writing and wellbeing prompts.

What students experience:

Meet your beast:
Explore how invisible feelings, fears and challenges can become imaginative creatures, giving students a creative way to explore the things that can get in their way.

Carry, Let Go, Take with Me:
eflect on the challenges we rry, the things we might need o let go of, and the strengths, lessons and courage we take into a new chapter.

Build Your Story:
Discover the building blocks of a compelling story, developing characters, goals, obstacles, tension, turning points and transformation.

Create Your Beast:
Turn an emotion or personal challenge into a unique creature through imaginative thinking, visual design and illustration

Find your story hook:
Craft an engaging elevator pitch that introduces a character, their Beast and the challenge they must overcome.

Group size:
Individual classes of approximately 20–30 students.

Bring Your Story to Life:
Experiment with sizzling story openings, action, dialogue, sensory details and techniques that help readers experience rather than simply be told what a character feels.

Edit like a writer:
Use a playful red, yellow and green editing approach to recognise telling, strengthen emotional moments and celebrate powerful writing.

Recommended format:
Three 60-minute workshops, one week apart.

Alternative format:
One 60- or 90-minute session

Curriculum Connections:
English, creative writing, literacy, personal and social capability, emotional literacy and critical and creative thinking.
